

ballad: A ballad is a poem that tells a story, usually about ordinary people who have had unusual adventures or have performed daring deeds. Ballads differ from other narrative poems in that they are often written to be sung. Most ballads have four-line stanzas, each with the same pattern of rhyme and meter. Often, ballads have a refrain, or repeated passage, at the end of each stanza.