

Does your adolescent watch bullying? Sharing these tips with him/her may help:

- o Talk to someone who can help, like a parent or a teacher. It's their job to intervene and make the bullying stop.
- o Walk away and get help... if you stay and watch, you are part of the problem. If you get help, you're part of the solution.
- o Be assertive, not aggressive. Speaking out helps, fighting and insulting others doesn't.
- o Ask for help from others in speaking out against harassment... there's strength in numbers.
- o Make an anonymous report to school staff if it's too hard to speak out publicly.
- o Invite the student being targeted to leave with you.
- o Stand up for those being targeted... they may not be able to do it for themselves.
- o Stay safe... if speaking out doesn't make the harassment stop, get help from someone who can safely intervene.
- o Be aware... wouldn't you want someone to step in if you were being targeted?

Does your adolescent bully others? Sharing these tips with him/her may help:

- o Talk to someone who can help, like a parent or a teacher. They can offer support and help you find ways of getting along with others better.
- o Put yourself in the other teen's shoes... think about what it must feel like to be picked on, put down, or left out. Would you want to be treated that way?
- o Make an excuse and walk away from situations where you might bully.
- o Resist peer pressure to bully... do what's right.
- o Find ways to use your power and influence in a positive way rather than a negative way.
- o Apologize to the people you've hurt.
- o Hang out with friends who will keep you in check.
- o Remember that everyone is unique and different... different doesn't mean worse or better than you.
- o See people as individuals, not stereotypes.
- o Know that if other teens watch and laugh, it doesn't mean they like it when you target others.
