

One Day

306

It started off like a day that nothing bad could happen, but something did. First it felt like a normal day but it wasn't something terrible was going to happen and I just knew it and it all happened in one day the day the meteorite headed for Earth! I was at school learning about space and stuff like that when the sky turned grey and started raining and at that moment the smart board turned on and it was on the weather channel. It said "there is a meteorite heading straight for earth and nothing can stop it"! Then something hit me it was a plan and a good one. I had a plan to stop the meteorite. It was risky but I couldn't let the meteorite hit earth. So I got my mom to drive me and my friends Ethan, Isaac and Max to the nearised space ship launch and told the science test that we have a plan. When we were done explaining the plan they got 4 space men and launched them up into space to try and stop the meetear from hitting earth. First they had to wait until the meetear was in the right place. Then kaboom! They sprayed it with water that cooled it down and then they started to drill holes in it after that the meetear started to crack and then it started to crack some more and it crack one last time and then kaboom!!! It flew into pieces the pieces flew every where but the pieces missed earth. Every one on earth cheered when they heard the good news and you know what it became a holiday and every one and I mean everyone celebrated it.
