When writing, you should be creative with your application questions and your essay. Remember: humor is key! Cindy loved a good laugh. Here is an example: When Cindy was in junior high school, a teacher punished her by forcing her to write an essay on any topic. Cindy, being a jokester, decided that she would write about snot. The first sentence in her essay was: "Snot, otherwise known as mucus, the tasty..."

Additional Information:

Cindy was the owner of the Bayside Dental Clinic in Saint John, New Brunswick; she practiced dentistry for more than 15 years. She was extremely involved with dentistry, serving on the New Brunswick Dental Society's Board of Director for many years and sitting as a well-known member of the Saint John Dental Society. She graduated from Nackawic High School in 1989; going on to UNB and Dalhousie graduating in 1997.

To know Cindy was to love Cindy. She was everything you could ever want in a friend: outgoing, well-spoken and full of life; funny, fearless and always with a new colour in her hair. Her coworkers enjoyed working with her, her patients found her to be kind and gentle, her friends and family loved her for her wild side as well as her humble nature. She also was very involved in her children's lives and loved them dearly as they were her world. Cindy was so special to many because she was always there for any anyone in need of care.

Cindy had a remarkable zest for life. Her personality led her to many silly adventures: appearing on Wipe Out Canada, getting singing lessons to improve her not-so-great singing abilities, and even applying to fly to the moon. When she was not busy, Cindy consistently gave back towards her beloved communities, specifically Nackawic events. She would help during Nackawic Community Days and Pro-Kids both as a volunteer and a donor. As you can see, Cindy's mantra would be to be kind and listen. Be fun and light.
