In the “Littératie en action” textbook, we will work on the following units:

- “Des gens remarquables”
- “Vivre dans un monde branché”
- “Des textes qui font réagir”

Each unit focuses on a variety of strategies for oral communication, reading and writing.

At least twice this year, students will choose a French novel and complete a book project. These novels are available at the Harvey Community Library and in my classroom.

Furthermore, we will examine different types of texts and concentrate on a variety of reading strategies.

Also, using “Ma Trousse d’Écriture” and “70 activités motivantes de communication écrite”, there are a variety of lessons which place emphasis on each specific writing trait.

Listed below are ways student learning will be assessed in this subject area:

- Class Discussions
- Writing Pieces
- Classwork (individual/group)
- Assignments
- Presentations
- Book Projects
- Starters/Exit Slips
- Reading Circles
- Conferencing
- Journal Writing

Assessment is based on the three strands in the Language Arts curriculum – Speaking and Listening, Reading and Viewing and Writing and Representing.
